DEATH VEHICLE — The tractor-trailer operated by Robert C. Whitmire, 28, Berwick, RD 2, in which he was killed early yesterday is shown after it was placed back on its wheels. Whitmire suffered a fractured skull when he was thrown from the vehicle and it overturned on him.

Berwick Man Killed When Truck Upsets

KRESGEVILLE—A 28-year-old truck driver was instantly killed about 3:50 a. m. yesterday when he was thrown beneath his tractor-trailer as it overturned on Route 209, a mile west of here.

John C. F. Foelker, Monroe County coroner, identified him as Robert C. Whitmire, 28, Berwick, RD 2, and listed the cause of death as a fractured skull.

The body was taken to Monroe County General Hospital and later released to the Dunkelberger and Westbrook funeral home.

State Police at Lehighton said the tractor-trailer, loaded with potato chips, was traveling east when it veered off the north side of the road, traveled about 400 feet through a field, returned to the highway and struck a concrete drainage abutment.

Whitmire was thrown from the tractor and fell beneath the trailer as the rig overturned on its left side.

Damage to the unit and its cargo was not extensive. The tractor-trailer is owned by Ferguson Trucking Co., Bloomsburg, and leased to Wise Potato Chip Co., Berwick.

The body was returned to Berwick last yesterday for services and burial.

Reaction Pleases Scranton

HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Scranton said Thursday the reaction to his proposed $138 million tax program "has not been as adverse as we expected."

Conceding that he has received letters of protest from the general public, Scranton added, at his weekly news conference:

"I am very grateful for one thing there seems to be general recognition of the need for money."

The program calls for expanding the sales tax to include clothing and expanding the 4 per cent rate to 4½ per cent and for increasing the six-cents-a-pack cigarette tax by one cent.

The governor turned aside questions as to the desirability of taxing clothing by pointing out that 34 of the 38 states with a sales tax levy it on clothing.

Connecticut taxes all but children's clothing and Texas exempts only work clothes. Only Pennsylvania and Wisconsin now exempt clothing entirely, he said.

Good Friday Store Hours

MOST of the stores in Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg will be closed from 12 Noon until 3 p. m. on Good Friday to allow employees to attend services in the various churches.

Polio Vaccine Clinic Dates Aired For Monroe County

DR. MARY Hunsicker, publicity director of the anti-polio drive, last night announced the dates and locations for administration of the oral Sabin Oral Sunday campaign.

The red letter days are Sunday, May 5, June 2 and June 30.

Locations for receiving the oral vaccines are as follows:

Arlington Heights Elementary school, Stroud Township; Ramsey Elementary school; Stroudsburg; J. M. Hill Elementary school, East Stroudsburg; Pleasant Valley High School, Broadheadville; Pocono Township Firehall, Tannersville; Pocono Lake Firehall, Pocono Lake; and Barrett Elementary Center, Mountaintop.

Dr. Hunsicker said the hours for distribution will be 10 a. m. to 5 p. m. on each Sunday scheduled. She added that there is no age limit on persons receiving the vaccine.

"At each clinic," Dr. Hunsicker said, "residents of Monroe County can swallow two drops of vaccine placed on a lump of sugar. Infants too young to chew sugar will be given the vaccine by drops placed directly in the mouth."

She continued, "Each person must take three types of vaccine to get complete immunization against polio. There are three distinct types of polio and each requires a special vaccine. All the vaccines look alike and are given in the same way but the vaccines must be taken separately to give each a chance to work."

The Monroe County Medical Society plans to give a different type of Sabin oral vaccine on each of the Sundays listed, with several weeks allowed to pass between the administration of one vaccine and the next," she concluded.

Walter Asks For Travel Regulation

Special To The Daily Record

WASHINGTON — Rep. Francis E. Walter has called on Congress to give the president authority to control the travel abroad of United States citizens in time of war or national emergency.

The Easton Democrat said his bill is an outgrowth of the first stage of studies still in progress by the committee on Un-American Activities, of which he is chairman, in the matter of United States citizens making unauthorized trips to Cuba.

Walter's bill would enlarge the prohibition of foreign travel unauthorized in time of war or national emergency within the existing law which prohibits such travel to alien permanent residents of the United States.

The United States is at this time still in a state of national emergency proclaimed by President Truman in 1950 at the outbreak of the Korean conflict and never revoked by Presidents Eisenhower or Kennedy.

Walter said there is a need for such legislation in view of the fact that approximately 200 American citizens went to Cuba within the recent year by using a route via Mexico. They obtained in Mexico, Cuban visas not stamped in their U.S. passport or travel documents but simply issued on plain sheets of paper.

Walter's bill would amend section 215 of the Immigration and Nationality Act of 1952 and would make such unauthorized travel of offenses punishable upon conviction by up to $5,000 fine and imprisonment of up to five years.

Kennedy Warns Steelmen On Danger Of Price Raise

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy served notice on the steel industry Thursday he will fight any "general across-the-board increase" in prices but won't balk at selective mark-ups on some steel products.

His statement, issued nearly 48 hours after Wheeling Steel Corp. raised prices on some items $6 a ton, virtually assured a moderate bulge in the steel price line.

It also probably eased the way for the AFL-CIO United Steelworkers of America to hammer out a wage increase in contract bargaining which the big union is free to reopen after April 30.

And, if major producers are content to accept Kennedy's new ground rules, it probably has spared the nation a re-enactment of the bitter government vs. industry struggle which ended in retreat for the steel titans just a year ago.

There was no immediate comment from the union or from U. S. Steel Corp., the nation's No. 1 producer.

Fire Destroys Six Lehighton Stores

LEHIGHTON — Fire destroyed six businesses in the heart of this Carbon County community yesterday with loss estimated at approximately $1,000,000.

At least 15 families were forced to flee the six buildings along N. First St., the center of the community's business district.

Destroyed by the flames were the Trexler Hotel, Faenza Shoe Repair Shop, Mike's Swap Shop, Webby's Radio and Television, Greenberger Furniture Store and Kistler Hardware Store.

A Lehighton Fire Dept. spokesman said the fire broke out at 10 a. m., apparently in the rear of the shoe repair shop.

Firemen from Summit Hill, Nesquehoning, Jim Thorpe, Mahoning Valley, Parryville, Palmyerton and Bowmanstown were called to the scene as the blaze spread through the three-story structures.

Firemen were still at the scene more than eight hours after the first alarm.

Navy Abandons Hope For 129 Men

Immediate Investigation Of Worst Naval Disaster

Tears, Hope, Faith Mixed In Families' Emotions

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Navy pronounced the nuclear-powered submarine Thresher lost Thursday and began a tremendous effort to find out what sent it to a sudden death with all 129 hands aboard in a dark and silent ocean deep.

Sadly and reluctantly, Adm. George W. Anderson, chief of naval operations, announced the Navy had abandoned hope after more than 25 hours passed without any word from the newly overhauled vessel.

"I conclude with great regret and sadness that this fine ship with 129 souls aboard is lost," Anderson said.

President Kennedy, a former Navy man who anxiously followed news of the far-flung search operation 220 miles off Boston, paid tribute to the courage and dedication of the men lost in the Thresher's hull at the bottom of the Atlantic.

Kennedy noted in a statement that the 278-foot-long attack submarine Thresher "pioneered a new era in the eternal drama of the sea, diving deeper and going faster than any submarine before it."

"The courage and dedication of these men of the sea, pushing ahead into depths to advance our knowledge and capabilities, is no less than that of their forefathers who led the advance on the frontiers of our civilization," Kennedy said.

The President said he and Mrs. Kennedy extended their deepest sympathy to the families of the men—16 officers, 96 enlisted men and 17 civilians.

It was the Navy's most tragic peacetime submarine disaster in terms of casualties, and perhaps the worst of all time, in peace or war.

Bulletin

WASHINGTON (AP) — Navy Secretary Fred Korth officially declared Thursday night that the submarine Thresher and all 129 men aboard are lost.

In issuing his formal declaration, Korth expressed "a fervent hope that the rumors and speculation which have already begun will cease, providing the bereaved families a more stable climate in which to compose themselves and endure their grief."

The worst previous peacetime submarine disaster was suffered by the British, when the submarine Thetis sank in Liverpool Bay on June 1, 1939, with the loss of 99 men.

By ironic coincidence, the $45-million Thresher plunged to the bottom in mile-and-a-half-deep water on the very day that memorial day services were being held at the Philadelphia Navy Base in honor of 1,500 submariners killed during World War II.

The Navy convened a court of inquiry at New London, Conn., to investigate all angles of the disaster. This court of two admirals and four captains is bound to explore new paths of inquiry since the Thresher is the first nuclear-powered submarine lost in the nine years this type of craft has been operating.

Heading the court is Vice Adm. Bernard L. Austin, commander of the Naval War College at Newport, R.I.

Anderson announced the deep-diving research craft Trieste will be loaded on railroad flat cars at San Diego, Calif., and sped overland to the search area.

The Trieste, which is due to reach the scene in about a week, will be sent down to try to locate the Thresher, which had gone through many previous deep-dive tests successfully.

Just how deep the submarine was designed to operate was a Navy secret, but Anderson said its class is "the deepest diving in the world" and one of the fastest.

Depth An Indication

All the Navy would say was that she was heading down more than 400 feet in operational tests. Anderson said the fact that the ocean is 8,400 feet deep in the test area "gives some indication" of the attack submarine's capabilities.

The Thresher was one of 16 attack-type submarines powered by nuclear engines in the U.S. fleet. These vessels are intended to hunt down and destroy other submarines as well as surface ships and do not carry Polaris missiles.

Some Navy men at the Pentagon clung for a time to a forlorn hope that the stricken Thresher may have come to rest on a submerged sand bank before falling to hull-crushing depths.

In that case the men might still be alive, but probably beyond rescue. It would be up to them to try to pull the vessel free, by blowing her ballast tanks.

But Anderson dashed these hopes for all but the never-say-dies when he announced the salvage vessel Recovery found bits of cork and plastic from a submarine's interior floating in a tell tale oil slick.

Moreover, Anderson said there surely would have been some word from the Thresher or a search crew by now even if there had been a communications failure aboard the submarine.

The Thresher's last radio contact was a routine report to its escort vessel, the submarine rescue ship Skylark, at 9:17 a.m. Wednesday.

That was after the doomed submarine had disappeared below the surface on a deep test dive from which it never recovered.

The Navy said the Skylark reported that the last communication test message from the Thresher was garbled, but was of a routine nature indicating the submarine was approaching its test depth. The Navy added that it was not unusual for communications under water to be garbled because of sea conditions.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"Both my sons. Both my sons." Mrs. Neil D. Shafer, Groton, Conn., could say no more when she was told the nuclear submarine Thresher was missing and presumed lost with her sons, Benjamin, 35, and John, 33, and 127 other men.

The brothers were neighbors at Groton as well as shipmates. Each had four children.

News of the disaster spread shock and grief from Maine to California and to ships at sea. Wives, children and parents hoped and prayed that their loved ones would be rescued despite the sad announcement in Washington by Adm. George W. Anderson, chief of naval operations.

"Very reluctantly I have come to the conclusion that the Thresher has indeed been lost," Some bitterness accompanied the disbelief and sorrow. At Groton, the wife of a crew member blamed the Navy for sending the Thresher through deep maneuvers shortly after leaving drydock at Portsmouth, N.H.

"Most of the fellows were a little leery," she said, asking that her name be withheld. They thought the boat needed more time.

She described the Thresher as an experimental boat and said the Navy "was always trying to do something new with her."

"I have great faith in him, great faith in my son's ability," said Mrs. Manning J. Harvey in Philadelphia. She is the mother of the Thresher's skipper, Lt. Cmdr. John Wesley Harvey, 35.

"I have faith in God and I have faith that everything will be all right," Mrs. Harvey said, even as hope all but vanished.

Lights burned through the night at the Portsmouth Naval Shipyard where the Thresher was built and where she had been undergoing an overhaul.

Rear Adm. C.J. Palmer, base commander, and his staff remained closeted in an upstairs room in the base administration building.

It was from that room that next of kin were notified.

"I've never had one that could even finish a phone conversation," said Capt. John Holmes, shipyard administrative officer.

Lt. Cmdr. Kevin J. Kearney, a Roman Catholic chaplain, comforted grief-stricken families throughout the long night of waiting for word that never came—that their men were safe.

"They were pretty well composed, interested only in prayer," he said. "Most of them know." He shook his head. "They know."

Navy wives, submarine wives especially, live with that special fear which comes from knowing that some day their husbands could go to sea and never return.

"He was an awfully good boy," That was all Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. McClelland of Wichita, Kan., could say when they learned their only child, Douglas, 22, was aboard the ill-fated submarine.

"I'm absolutely lost. But I haven't given up hope," said Mrs. Edmund F. Forni, Pikesville, Md. She is the mother of Edward H. Forni, 33, a chief petty officer aboard the Thresher.

Forni's wife was reported seriously ill at St. Alban's Naval Hospital in New York.

Searching Sub Picks Up Sound

WEYMOUTH, Mass. (AP)—The submarine Seawolf, traveling deep beneath the sea, reported late Thursday her sound gear had detected an object believed to be the missing atomic submarine Thresher.

The Seawolf reported she was picking up what were apparently hull noises from a stationary object, including sounds that seemed like bangs against metal in series of three.

Other information from the scene indicated, however, there was no possibility of life aboard the Thresher, which went down during deep sea trials Wednesday with 129 men aboard.

The destroyer Warrington reported recovery of yellow and red gloves from the surface—the sort used in the nuclear reactor section of the Thresher.

She also picked up bits of plastic used to shield the nuclear reactor to prevent radiation from spreading through the vessel. These objects were found in an oil slick.

The Seawolf report came from a position approximately 41.37 degrees north and 64.45 degrees west. This is slightly east and south of the position at which the Thresher was last reported at 9:17 a.m. Wednesday.

Immediately after detecting the noises the Seawolf requested all surface ships to depart the area to avoid interfering on its noise detectors with the sound of their own propeller screws and their own sonar gear.

Meanwhile, Rear Adm. Lawson P. Ramage ordered the oceanographic ship Atlantis II to proceed to the scene as soon as possible.

"IT IS FINISHED!" — The Christian world remembers the Day of Crucifixion. The lowered cross, symbolic of the completion of atonement for all our sins, the blood shed for us in the midst of the slime and ooze of a sinful world, is portrayed in photographic art form. Church services will be held from noon until 3 p.m. today in remembrance of His death for us on that Black Day. Christ's body is not pictured on the cross as the Father's work is finished, and He is not there! "Death, where is now thy sting?"

Holmgren Cited By Commander

MAJOR Donald R. Holmgren, Stroudsburg R. 1, a member of the Air Force Reserves since the end of World War II, has been commended by the commander of the 8369th Air Force Reserve Recovery Group, Wyoming, Pa., for his outstanding performance of duty during his recent two-week tour of active duty.

Col. O. Peter Loretto, 8369th commander, in a letter to Major Holmgren, lauded his fellow reservist for his "initiative in obtaining necessary transportation to facilitate removal of excess property, and your overall direction of this phase, contributed materially to the successful completion of the entire project."

Col. Loretto's letter of commendation was presented to Major Holmgren by Major Joseph Kovarik, Stroudsburg, information officer of the 8369th Group.

Major Kovarik, who is a professor of chemistry at East Stroudsburg State College, is president of Stroudsburg Borough Council.

Major Holmgren in civilian life is the proprietor of Donald's Family Shoe Store, Main Street, Stroudsburg.

N'fld Rotary Starts Spruce Up Project

NEWFOUNDLAND—This Pocomo Mountain community will blossom if the Rotary Club carries out a projected plan now "in committee."

Willis Gilpin, president of the club, reported that tentative plans are under way to choose a plant, flower or bush that will bloom at a certain time in the Spring, and to encourage property owners in the area to plant this selected flower.

"We could have our own Blossom Time in Newfoundland, and attract visitors to the Pocomos if this plan is carried out," he noted.

The committee in charge would appreciate any suggestions from area residents as to what to plant—what might be best for this climate. Anyone with any suggestions may forward them to the president or to any member of the club. Allen Edwards is chairman of the planning group.

Suggestions should be accompanied by information as to care of plantings, if possible, or other sources of information which might be contacted.

DAVID TOMS, owner-manager of the Antlers Resort, Swiftwater, has joined the Board of Directors of the Cherry Lane Playhouse.

A native of Stroudsburg, Toms was an early and ardent supporter of the Playhouse during its first season of operation. He will be active in helping to determine and carry out the policy of the Playhouse.

Jack Irwin and Ferdinand Hooker will co-produce a season of 10 musicals opening June 24 with "Little Mary Sunshine," followed by: "Fantasticks," "The Boy Friend," "Once Upon A Mattress," "Earnest In Love," "Leave It To Jane," "Riverwind," and "Trouble In Tahiti," with a remaining two shows to be announced later this month.

Each show will run for one week with performances Monday thru Saturday evenings at 8:40, and a matinee Wednesday at 2:30.

Salvation Army Dawn Service Set

THE Salvation Army will conduct Easter Sunday Dawn services Sunday at 6:30 a.m. on the athletic field of East Stroudsburg State College with Major H. G. Baker giving the message.

The morning worship services have been moved to the Wyckoff recreation hall, N. Sixth St., Stroudsburg at 11 a.m. with the message being delivered by Brigadier May Adam (Ret.) She will be aided by Capt. Patricia Miller.

Recitations will be by David Hinelein, Jeanette Heller, Charles Christman, Hannah Featherman, Monica Lutiens and Darlene Hinelein and the Junior Songsters.

Sunday School is scheduled for 9:45 a. m., in the Citadel.

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA
GOVERNOR'S OFFICE
HARRISBURG

Governor William W. Scranton today issued the following:

March 28, 1963

GREETINGS:
The period April 7 to 14, 1963, has been designated by the National American Cosmetology Schools Association as "National Beauty Career Days."

This is part of a continuing series of similar annual events designed to focus public attention on the importance and attractiveness of a professional beauty career and the vital part that cosmetology plays in the everyday lives of American women.

During this period beauty culture schools throughout the United States will join hands in a common effort to further the story of professional beauty culture training.

I am pleased to designate the week of April 7 to 14, 1963, as "NATIONAL BEAUTY CAREER DAYS" in the State of Pennsylvania, and urge the citizens of this State to acquaint themselves with an assist in this program.

WILLIAM W. SCRANTON
Governor

In Celebration of
"NATIONAL BEAUTY CAREER DAYS"

you, the public, are cordially invited to Whither Research?

Public officials speak grandly of the benefits to "all humanity" of the space program, but are vague about what specific benefits there may be. It is true that as of now, nothing that could be brought back from the moon — let alone outer space — would be worth what it would cost to fetch it.

But the benefits of other kinds of research is unquestioned. Such research has given us the standard of living we now enjoy, and future research will be largely responsible for any improvements.

For some time now, thoughtful men have been questioning the number of research eggheads America is putting into its moon basket. Commerce Secretary Hodges some months ago pointed out that the quest for new and improved products was going ahead in the industrial nations which are our rivals, while we have diverted our best talent to defense and space research.

Donald W. Collier, vice president for research at Borg Warner Corp., now has pointed out that Government appropriations for research are outrunning the supply of researchers, and that too many dollars are chasing too many scientists and engineers. As a result, the cost of research has skyrocketed in the U. S., and now it's up to four times as expensive as similar research done abroad. He also noted that industrial research has taken a backseat to space and defense.

Richard R. Hough, engineering vice president for American Telephone and Telegraph Co., adds the information that our industrial research is now only two to three percent of sales, while our competitor nations are spending 12 to 16 per cent.

In the light of such information, the proposal of the National Association of Manufacturers to slow down increases in space spending makes good sense. The NAM suggests that the new space budget contain no more than 25 per cent increase over the old one, and points out that industry long has learned that sharply increasing research expense doesn't automatically increase results on a project. It warns of waste and misapplication of scarce talent and materials.

One billion dollars would be saved in this budget alone, and that's an important savings. Perhaps even more important is the fact that such a reduction would permit more of the kind of private research that makes new jobs.

Physical Tests Continue

Harry T. Brainerd, Pennsylvania's new traffic safety commissioner, has let it be known that the program calling for the periodic physical re-examination of all of the state's licensed automobile drivers will be continued while he is in office. He pledged himself to a "good, fair equitable administration of the present laws and regulations in relation to all traffic safety . . . to give a good, fair impartial system of enforcement and education."

Brainerd's boss, Secretary of Revenue Theodore Smith, suspended the operation of the physical examination plan shortly after he took office earlier this year. His action was taken, he said, on the ground that the administration of the program had been unsatisfactory — "rather silly," was one way he put it. It is to be hoped that Secretary Smith is now in agreement with Commissioner Brainerd that the program should be resumed, with such changes in administrative procedures as may be deemed advisable. It would be a serious mistake to drop a project which can aid greatly in the effort toward accident prevention. Former Governor Lawrence, who put the program into effect, made it one of the main supports of his over-all highway safety plan.

While it had to overcome Republican criticism, its value apparently appealed to New York's GOP Governor Rockefeller, who this year asked the state legislature to enact a series of laws to implement his safety program. Unfortunately, of five bills submitted by Governor Rockefeller, only one was enacted into law but that was probably the most important one. It requires licensed drivers to take vision tests every nine years, at the least. Under existing law, a licensed operator is required to submit to an eye examination only if involved in an accident or becomes a persistent law violator. The new New York law becomes effective next year. Its enforcement should contribute greatly to highway safety there.

John Chamberlain

To Spray Or Not

By John Chamberlain

The big question in suburbia this spring is nothing so portentous as what to do about Castro or the tax cut. It is whether to spray or not to spray.

All sorts of associations have sprung up in the wake of Rachel Carson's well-publicized attack on the sellers and users of high powered insecticides. Hardly a mail is delivered that doesn't carry some warning that spraying to control the gypsy moth, for example, is incidentally murderous to the aquatic insects which keep the fish in our ponds and streams alive.

The story of how spraying to control the fire ant in the southern states also decimated birds and raccoons is told and retold.

Likewise the story of the dusting of Wayne County in Michigan, which, so the material in the mails repeats, killed Japanese beetles and song birds with beautiful impartiality.

The "Carson woman," which is how some of the more angry entomologists refer to the best-selling author and lecturer who instigated this vast concern over what insecticides are doing to birds, fish and bees, is having her day of triumph.

And the entomologists, even when they hate her, do not try to knock down her criticism of indiscriminate spraying, which they admit can kill pheasants and beneficent earthworms along with noxious insects.

The real case of the entomologists against Miss Carson is that she has helped popularize a new stereotype of the careless "expert" who refuses even to consider the danger of the insecticides he recommends for roadside spraying or for the aerial dusting of crops or State-owned woodlands.

The argument of the professional entomologist is that the prevalence of an insect pest invariably poses a choice between two evil courses. Admittedly the effort to eradicate the gypsy moth does some damage to the food supply of fish as DDT falls into streams. But if the gypsy moth is permitted to breed at will, an oak forest can be defoliated in next to no time. When a forest loses its leaves, the birds necessarily move on.

Using a striking figure of speech, Miss Carson says it's a "silent spring" when insectsicides kill the song birds. But, so the entomologists retort, it's also a "silent spring" when the birds can find no leafy woods in which to live.

It's a question of where to draw a fine line — and the more practical entomologists come up with a compromise answer. This answer is: spray, but do not do it two years in a row. Give the fish in the streams time to come back between sprayings. But do not let woods become so completely defoliated that no birds can live in them.

Another thing that the professional entomologists hold against Miss Carson is the air of omniscience which they say accompanies her recommendation that they "study" the use of "biological" control of insect pests.

The professionals insist they have been making strenuous efforts along this line ever since 1917. But "biological" controls, which involve setting one insect to prey on another, are not easy to develop. By dint of hard scratching, a few successes in this area have been achieved.

In the Nineteen Thirties the peach crop of the northeastern United States was threatened by an Oriental moth. Eventually the agricultural experiment stations turned up a parasite that preyed on the moth, and the peach trees were rescued.

The "lady beetle" proved to be a good "control" for aphids, which it eats, so the entomologists say, "like mid." And the spores of the "milky disease," if spread on lawns, kill the larvae of the Japanese beetle.

The trouble with a "biological" control agent seldom wipes out a noxious species. The pests that manage to survive develop resistant strains, even as they do against the use of the admittedly dangerous chemical insecticides.

So, as the suburbanites debate the question this spring of whether to spray or not to spray, they are faced with having to choose between two horns of a dilemma while they are waiting for new biologic controls to be devised.

If they do spray, they may find that the doc, licking the spray residue off a bone, will suddenly lose his ability to coordinate his reflexes. But if they don't spray, they may be inundated with caterpillars.

You pay your money and you take your choice. And the argument over Rachel Carson rages far into the suburban night.

Harrisburg — Reporter's Notebook:

Your Slip Is Showing, Sir! — Talking idly with a Scranton aide this week the subject came up of the gubernatorial heave-of-the-ball for the game at Pittsburgh between the Milwaukee Braves and the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Out of curiosity we inquired as to whether Governor Scranton was by any chance a southpaw, a left-hander of any note, etc. "Oh no," came back the idle reply, "he's a right-winger."

There was about a three-second pause . . . Suddenly the Scranton aide sat bolt upright.

"What did I say?" he gasped. "Good heavens — I don't mean 'right-winger,' I mean right-hander!"

(That's the difference between politics and sports!)

"After You, Alfonso!" — The current running battle between the union (the State Employees Council, AFL-CIO) and the State Department of Highways over the ten per cent cutback in maintenance personnel ordered by the Scranton Administration has produced all sorts of interesting incidents, but one of the more curious developed this week.

A highway maintenance superintendent in one of the western counties received orders to fire some 120 workers from his force, that is, notify the men their services would no longer be needed.

The highway maintenance superintendent took one look at the order, offered the voluminous comment of, "nuts" — and heaved the order in the wastebasket . . . The reason: he had already received his own dismissal notice earlier!

Missing Mimeo Pooh-Blahs — The budget hearings on departmental fiscal requests that got under way this week before a joint legislative House-Senate appropriations committee are interesting in at least one respect. The great mimeographed pooh-blahs of yesteryear are missing this time.

These are the detailed explanations, or "sell" points dreamed up by the various departments and distributed to members of the Capitol Hill press corps to "explain" their case, that is, why the state agency concerned should have the volume of taxpayer funds it was requesting of the Legislature.

This mimeo "sell" pattern came into full flower during the (subtle) pressure era of the Democratic Leader and Lawrence Administrations — the idea being of course to generate public acceptance of and pressure for, the oftentimes fancy budgetary items . . . In any event, these times have been missing so far under the new Republican Scranton Administration . . . Up to this point it's been a cold business of the department heads justifying their requests to the joint appropriations committee — period . . . Perhaps the flower of the mimeograph has passed in this respect!

Are Shoes "Clothing"? — A check with the front office as to how reaction or response is running to the Governor's proposed tax increase is interesting in several respects.

For example, reaction to the administration's proposal to increase the cigarette tax from 6 cents to 7 cents a pack has drawn almost a complete blank — with virtually no letters either pro or con . . . In fact, even on the proposal to increase the sales tax rate from the present 4 per cent to 4½ per cent there has been "very little" expression, according to gubernatorial aides.

There is some squawk though on the proposal to remove clothing from the list of exemptions, but curiously a number of letters, in penciled aisles, inquire as to whether the Governor also proposes to include "shoes" . . . Gubernatorial assistants say they wouldn't have given much thought to the shoe query had it appeared on the one or two letters — but it has appeared in most of the letters . . . "We're somewhat flabbergasted by the shoe query persistence," commented one aide. "We always thought of shoes as part of clothing — just as much as socks or stockings. Now this shoe query has us stopped!"

Is diabetes an inherited disease?

A. E. New Jersey Dear Mr. E.: It is most commonly accepted that diabetes may have an hereditary pattern.

Sometimes it is difficult to trace who in the family background had diabetes, because it is possible to transmit this diabetic pattern without having been a sufferer from the disease. For those with a family history of diabetes, more frequent examination of the blood and urine is advised.

Parkinson's Disease Is Parkinson's Disease catching?

Mrs. N. M. Pennsylvania Dear Mrs. M.: Parkinson's Disease, sometimes called "shaking palsy," is neither contagious nor hereditary. It is not caused by a germ or a virus.

Bedwetting My 5-year-old daughter still wets her bed. Even spanking does not help. Have you any suggestions?

Mrs. T. E. B. Iowa Dear Mrs. B.: First and most important, stop the spanking. Kindness and understanding will be more effective.

After ruling out any physical cause of bedwetting, you should seek the psychological guidance so important to the cure of this problem, which is generally of emotional origin.

Don't put it off by saying, "This, too, shall pass." Your child should be helped now.

Wax In Ears My ears accumulate wax quickly. Is there some way I can remove the wax myself?

O. T. F. Delaware Dear O. T. F.: Wax in the ear is a healthy product of nature. It lubricates the ear canal and keeps foreign substances from irritating the ear drum.

There is a tendency in some people for wax to harden as it forms. It is dangerous to attempt to remove it with bobby pins or pencils.

Some of the new medications for dissolving ear wax may work for you, but it is safest to have your doctor skillfully remove the wax.

Washington — That $50 million electronics research center earmarked for President Kennedy's hometown is headed squarely for a curt congressional veto.

A decisive majority of the Senate Space Committee is now definitely against this controversial scheme — widely suspected of being politically motivated to further the re-election aspirations of Senator Ted Kennedy, 31-year-old brother of the President. Significantly, the powerful backstage opposition is being vigorously led by irate Democrats.

Foremost among them is Senator Clinton Anderson, D-N.M., committee chairman. Strongly supporting him is Senator Pat McNamara, D-Mich., chairman of the Public Works Committee.

Anderson is one of the most influential members of the Senate. In addition to heading the Space Committee, which will pass on the $50 million electronics research center, he is a former chairman of the Joint Atomic Committee, the Interior Affairs Committee, and holds a seat on the potent Finance Committee.

As head of the Atomic Committee, Anderson spearheaded the bitter battle that blocked the confirmation of Lewis Strauss as Secretary of Commerce in the Eisenhower cabinet.

Senator McNamara is flatly predicting that not only will the Space Committee bar locating the electronics project in Boston, but will direct it be established in the interior of the country, possibly in the Midwest for "security and other important reasons."

This view is strongly seconded by other Democrats and Republicans.

Really Sore — Strikingly indicative of the deep resentment the administration's scheme has stirred among Democrats was the anger displayed at a luncheon meeting of Senate Democratic leaders.

Held in the private office of Floor Leader Mike Mansfield, Mont., there was universal condemnation of the proposal.

No one said a word for it. With out exception, these top leaders, most of them committee chairmen, were caustically critical. One hotly characterized it as "another Kennedy family grab." Another charged that putting this huge research center in Boston "would mean serious industrial and employment losses to five states — California, Ohio, New York, Texas and Virginia."

The White House, perturbed by this backstage hostility, is belatedly trying to quell it.

Space Administrator James Webb has been given the job of persuading members of the House and Senate Space committees that politics had nothing to do with the selection of Boston as the site of the electronics center. Webb is earnestly assuring the lawmakers that the decision on locating the project was made last summer before Ted Kennedy was nominated for the Senate.

According to Webb, Boston was chosen solely because of the proximity of a number of universities and technological institutions.

Opponents are countering this argument with the contention that funds for the project were hurriedly inserted in the federal budget at a final review in the White House. It is asserted that an $8.5 million item, the first installment on the center, was included in the budget expressly by the President.

Webb's continuance as head of the National Aeronautics & Space Administration has become clouded since the death of Senator Robert Kerr, D-Okla., who was chairman of the Space Committee.

The two men worked closely together. Among committee members Webb was known as "Kerr's man." At times some of them complained of not being kept informed of what was transpiring. Significantly, several months ago, shortly after Anderson became chairman, he named a new staff director.

He is Frank DiLuzio, former official of the Fairbanks-Morse Company. Committee insiders won't be surprised if he replaces Webb as head of NASA.

Public Assistance's Get Tough Policy?

—By BOB CLARK

Editor's Note: Robert L. Clark, city editor of The Daily Record recently took part in an editors' seminar on state government. Clark listened to the governor, cabinet members and his press aides in three days and nights of conferences. These are his impressions and findings in a series of articles. Today's is on "A get tough policy on public assistance?"

There is a strong possibility that the Pennsylvania's Department of Welfare may take a get-tough policy to shave the mileage from its monstrous public assistance rolls.

Arlin M. Adams, a precise, impeccable gentleman who is Gov. Scranton's Secretary of Public Welfare made this observation when questioned by State Editors at a State Government Seminar in Harrisburg last week.

Adams who pin-points the new look that Scranton brought with him to the Capitol noted that his department was "going to encourage" counties to put into effect a movement to have qualified individuals on relief rolls perform duties at public institutions.

This would mean—if county officials with the backing of the state enforced the measure—more than just a few Monroe Countians would be placed in jobs such as covering the County Home, County Jail, The General Hospital of Monroe County, East Stroudsburg State College or any other non-profit public institution which would come under this category.

Adams, a man who is dedicated to taking the name and address off the relief rolls and putting stature and more encouragement into the individual, promised full cooperation of his department to help rehabilitate the so-called forgotten people on relief.

The aim of Adams' administration is to build up a "sound socio-economic foundation." He emphasized that one of his goals is to "protect the homes from deterioration."

"We don't like the idea of just sending a relief check to

Veteran's Guide

Q — As a peacetime — or "sold war" — veteran, am I entitled to treatment in a Veterans Administration outpatient clinic or by a private doctor and have the VA pay for it?

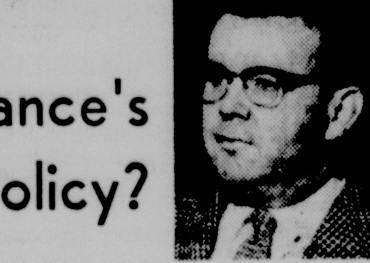

A — You are entitled to outpatient treatment, or treatment by an approved private physician as well as medicine and bandages ONLY if you are a veteran (either peacetime or wartime service) with a disability incurred or aggravated in service.

Q — Is a veteran who was drafted and served only a two-year hitch and saw no actual wartime service eligible to be buried in Arlington or any other National Cemetery?

A — Yes, any veteran who has a discharge other than dishonorable is eligible for burial in a National Cemetery. Application should go to the superintendent of the National Cemetery in which burial is desired. Any VA office will provide a assistance. Application should be made at time of death for grave sites are not reserved.

Q — As an enlisted man in the reserves I was recalled to active duty and I have been told my former job will not be waiting for me. What should I do?

A — If you are refused reemployment and you apply for it within 31 days after release from service, you should report immediately to the nearest state employment office or, if you were working for the Federal government, to the nearest office of the Civil Service Commission. This benefit is administered in the case of private employment by the Bureau of Veterans Reemployment Rights of the Department of Labor.

a name and address," he said. "Our plan is not to isolate these individuals."

Adams showed deep concern over the increasing amount of aged on relief. Noting there was more than a million people over 65 in the state of Pennsylvania, he said three-fifths of these were on relief.

The main causes of the heavy relief caseload in the state, Adams said, stemmed from births out of wedlock, little housing and poor schooling. Adams aims to have his department in conjunction with other field offices of state government to push a program to have public assistance recipients "educated to help themselves."

The Public Welfare Department lacks the weapons to reduce relief rolls. Adams proposes additional counselors for the handicapped, an increased retraining program, liaison officers between his department and the local Pennsylvania State Employment Services Offices and greater cooperation on the state, county and local level.

Adams makes no bones about it that he and his colleagues are out to eliminate fraudulent cases dotting relief rolls. He sees a stricter control over the program as one definite way of cutting down the caseload.

Adams, however, left the door open to county officials to grab the reins first. However, he implied that the state is taking a much closer look at the problem that not only is a drain on Pennsylvania's economy but across the nation.

Adams advocates stricter measures to curb juvenile delinquency and newer regulations for a stronger child welfare program.

One of the younger members of Scranton's Cabinet, Adams is both ambitious and dedicated to his post. He reeks with enthusiasm when he talks of his department's problems that can be solved if cooperation is received from all levels of government.

He depicts the figure who if given the tools will act realistically and not radically. Adams, however, Harrisburgers will also tell you, takes those on public assistance to heart. He has no plans to destroy them but definitely has plans to make them a valuable part of society.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: I am a young (34) widow, attractive and well-built. I live alone with my two small children. I am dating (but not engaged to) a widower ten years older than I. He comes by my house many mornings for coffee before work. Then he runs in for lunch quite often. He frequently hunts after work until dark, so on those nights he stays in about 10 and stays until midnight.

On the week-ends we take trips (we take my children) and in order not to have to stay all night we leave here about 3:30 in the morning and get back about 2:00 A.M. We are responsible people and are not doing anything wrong, so why can't my nosy neighbors keep their big mouths shut? Why do they always think the worst?

DEAR INNOCENT: When a man is seen entering and leaving your home at all hours of the night and morning, you can't blame the neighbors for thinking the worst. However, if you have nothing to be ashamed of and no reason to explain — don't.

DEAR ABBY: Will you please help me to find a young man who is in the Army? It is absolutely necessary that I locate him as soon as possible. All I know about him is his name,

WITH scientific knowledge and problems of sociology burgeoning rapidly in this age of the Cold War, schools are furiously revising and working to give their pupils the knowledge needed to understand and cope with the age.

This problem is not academic — it is a real crying need for the children of today to be equipped with the education that can allow them to see problems of the time clearly.

Fortunate is the area whose educators realize the need for change and do something about it. Without revision, children would graduate in 1965 with an education fitting them to live in 1930.

Fortunate is Monroe County, for the educators know their responsibility and are living up to it.

"When you think that you must take a child and instill in him a love of knowledge and a sense of ethics for today's world, as well as educate him," Carl T. Secor, supervising principal of the East Stroudsburg Jointure said, "it frightens you."

The four men who head the public school districts of this county are Earl F. Groner of Stroud Union; Secor; Willis Dunlap of Pocono Mountain Joint, and John C. Mills of Pleasant Valley.

They realize the problem of keeping pace.

"It's a crying shame," John Mills said yesterday, "that today the students graduate from the 12th grade without a pattern of living, not knowing why things happen, or what's wrong with things that do happen."

For this reason courses in philosophy and psychology will be started at the Pleasant Valley school in the future.

Past, Future

Philosophy will be a base to let the students see what has been done in the past and what is being done now to cope with problems and institute a pattern for life.

The basic job here is to just see what the problems are, and instill an interest in trying to solve them. Today's problems are essentially different from those of any

Scranton, Area GOP Aides Confer

REPUBLICAN county chairmen and other GOP leaders from Monroe, Wayne and Pike Counties yesterday attended a meeting with Gov. William W. Scranton and Republican State Chairman Craig Truax in Harrisburg.

Each chairman was given a list of state employees from his county and an explanation why the Scranton Administration seems to be slow in replacing Democrats with Republicans.

The governor and his staff also went over the administration program before the legislature, including its request for $138 million in new taxes.

This was the final meeting in a series of luncheon sessions with GOP county chairmen.

Mrs. Dailey's Rites Conducted

FUNERAL services for Mrs. Emma J. Dailey, 74, of 73 Anolomark St., East Stroudsburg, were held yesterday at 2 p.m. in the Lanterman Funeral Home with the Rev. Harold C. Eaton officiating. Burial was in the Prospect Cemetery.

Pallbearers were Foster Miller, Percy Marvin, Edward Staples, Chauncey Bensley, Fred Strauser and Dale Learn.

other generation. It is today's students who will have to live with the Cold War and other knots in world affairs.

How can they untangle the knots if they can't recognize the basis of the problem?

To understand what is being done, we turn to the schools.

At East Stroudsburg Joint Schools, Carl T. Secor said, "We are revising our courses in science in the elementary schools and constantly revising our curriculum in social studies."

"In all our curriculum we are doing things to keep pace as best we can. The inspiration comes from all levels. The federal government and the state government are interested in these problems, and our own teachers are helping, too."

He said that the school receives state directives on world culture and human relations with suggestions for teaching.

Creative Thinking

"We are developing skills and developing understanding in the students," Secor added, "and trying to develop creative thinking, if possible."

Most important of all, he said that the schools were "trying to get them to reason and seek the truth, to realize there are two sides to every question."

Burglars Ransack Stroud Union

STROUD Union High School was entered yesterday between midnight and 7:55 a.m. and $5.08 was stolen and several hundred dollars damage was done, Stroudsburg police reported last night.

Clarence Booth, custodian, discovered the entry and summoned police.

The investigation showed that in addition to the money stolen there was also four boxes of pencils, two ballpoint pens and a grey wooden box taken.

Police said that five home-rooms were entered by smashing in a small window in each door and the teachers desk was ransacked. The main office of the high school was also entered, by breaking a glass, but nothing in the office was disturbed.

Also entered was the library, cafeteria and the male teachers' lounge. Police said a small amount of money was taken from the library and that the soda machine in the teachers' lounge was pried open but no money was taken from the machine. The machine had been emptied before the close of school on Wednesday.

Police said they assume the person or persons left the building by a boiler room door as it was found ajar by the custodian upon his arrival at the school.

Chief of Police Jack Tretheway said that several suspects have been questioned and that the investigation will be continued today.

Birth

A son to Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Evans, Canadensis.

Admissions

Mrs. Kay Wells, Mt. Pocono; Mrs. Nancy Miller, East Stroudsburg, RD 2; John Smeltz, Stroudsburg, RD 1; Wayne Dennis, Stroudsburg, RD 3; Earl Pipher, Stroudsburg; Mrs. Betty Varney, Slateford; Mrs. Susan Walters, Stroudsburg.

Discharges

Leon Kitchen, Columbia, N. J.; Mrs. Betty Brown, Mt. Bethel; Mrs. Ruth Ann Paynter, Stroudsburg, RD 2.

They are doing this in all fields, even in math and arithmetic.

The curriculum is being developed and correlated from kindergarten through 12th grade so that complete articulation is obtained and scope and sequence is established.

As an example, Secor said that in kindergarten, the students know what a magnet is. Up through the grades they learn a little more about a magnet each year. The goal is to sweep out the useless repetition.

Finally, at advanced stages, the students tie in the electromagnetic qualities of the material to physics, to math, to earth and space science. The knowledge is rounded out. And this is done with everything that is taught.

"In setting up a curriculum," Secor said, "we try to use as much related material as possible. We have been working on scope and sequence and revision for the past five years."

"It's one of those jobs that's never done," he concluded, "for what is good this week might change tomorrow."

East Stroudsburg, therefore, knows what needs to be done and is doing it.

Earl F. Groner of Stroud Union was unavailable for comment yesterday, but the same is true of that school. Courses there are being revised, problems of the modern age are being discussed, and the resulting knowledge imparted to the students.

Moving Ahead

At Pocono Mountain Joint things are moving ahead, also.

C. Willis Dunlap, supervising principal, said, "Our programs are being integrated through the grades. In ninth grade we are teaching what is known as earth and space science. We have a man taking a Masters at Syracuse right now who will specialize in this when he returns."

"Courses in current events are being given," Dunlap said. "This is true in high school and down through the grades."

Most important, the students are discussing what is happening in relation to the times. They are searching for the reasons behind the problems of the world.

Pocono Mountain Joint is keeping abreast of the situation.

At Pleasant Valley, more encouraging notes are evident. John C. Mills, supervising principal of that district, said, "We are also coordinating our curriculum from grades one through 12. We are rewriting courses of study, omitting the unnecessary and achieving complete continuity."

"We are working with the Pennsylvania Council for Social Studies and with the Curriculum Revision Bureau in Harrisburg. We are increasing modern math, and teaching general and vocational chemistry in our college prep courses."

Adding New Courses

"We are adding new courses," Mills said, "mostly in the science and math fields. In the commercial field we are teaching business law and business English."

The school is running a full year of world cultures and is currently working on bridging the remote past and getting up to events that are of recent origin and importance.

Most important, Mills said that in contemporary problems the teachers were trying to disturb the minds of the students with a problem rather than satisfying them with an answer.

Disturbed with these problems, the students may think about them deeply enough to try to organize an answer of their own.

And that's where the philosophy comes in. Here is a course in ways of setting up frameworks for those individual answers.

All around the county and the country this is happening. It has to happen, for without it, the next generation would be unfit to handle the world they will inherit.

Water Gap Vista Nears Reality Stage

DELAWARE WATER GAP—Members of the Delaware Water Gap Chamber of Commerce were told this week that the Water Gap Vista project will become a reality within the next year.

This information was provided Mayor Arthur Lehr by Monroe County Rep. Van D. Yetter Jr.

Lehr said a letter has been received from Karl G. Thomson, regional park superintendent, informing the mayor that the project has been discussed by Joseph A. Blatt, director of state parks, and Dr. Maurice K. Goddard, secretary of forests and waters.

Thomson said representatives of the parks department will meet with Lehr as soon as the weather is good enough for them to view the vista site.

It was announced that bids for the new postal facility in Delaware Water Gap will be advertised by April 5 and that the Coast Guard has approved the sixth annual Delaware Water Gap Motor Boat Regatta to be held Sunday, May 26.

About $300,000

The chamber was informed that the quoted $251,858 price for the proposed water program does not include engineering, legal, financing and contingency costs which will bring the total to about $300,000.

The water committee—Layton Osborne, president of the chamber, Stephen R. Matos, secretary, and Guy Kemper and Harold Crossdale, all graduate engineers—was asked to review the preliminary plans and report recommendations at the next meeting.

The chamber urged that the water rate be equalized among all consumers. Citizens were urged to attend the next borough council meeting and present complaints in a group.

The report of the education committee is being studied by directors and will be presented to all members for action shortly.

Members were interested in determining why the new Stroud Union High School will cost more than $1,000,000 for 450 students while the Marian Catholic High School in the Diocese of Allentown will cost only $1,350,000 for 1,200 students.

They also discussed the necessity for Stroud Union building a planetarium when one is scheduled for East Stroudsburg State College.

Endorses Jazz Festival

The chamber also endorsed the proposed jazz festival for Stroudsburg.

Fire Police Named In Mt. Pocono

MT. POCONO—Five fire police were appointed by Chief Ernest Bishop at a recent meeting of the department. They are Thomas Brislin, Ted Kane, Angelo Battisto, Berne Cramer and Stanley Radesky.

George Bean, president, reported 7000 feet of dæron hose has been purchased and is in use. Sixteen alarms were sounded during March, 13 of them brush fires.

It was announced the annual carnival will be held on the Kinney Ave. grounds from July 22 to 27. Robert Stettler and Ron Horne are new members of the department.

Tax Collections Rise $334,000 In Monroe

THE STATE Dept. of Internal Affairs yesterday reported that tax collectors in 10 Monroe County communities last year collected $334,000 more than they did in 1961.

They collected a total of $2,428,124 in 1962 and were paid $33,090 in commissions, compared to collections of $2,094,116 and commissions of $64,426 in the previous year.

The $334,000 more in taxes in 1962 was collected for about $10,000 less in commissions and salaries than the previous year. Stroud Union School District, where the bulk of the increase in taxes was collected, switched from a five per cent commission for its collectors to salaries last year.

GSA Okays Project At ESSC

THE GENERAL State Authority yesterday announced final approval of the installation of an additional boiler and stoker at East Stroudsburg State College.

A. J. Caruso, GSA executive director, said a two-drum, water tube boiler with a capacity of 17,000 pounds of steam an hour, a stoker, forced draft fan and related controls were included in the first phase of the project.

The second phase included piping, air ducts, an ash hopper, catwalks, ladders, stairs, guard rails, a coal bunker and conveyor, scales, a coal chute, steelwork, electric wiring and related construction.

Cost of both phases of the project was about $134,000, the GSA said. An extension to the boiler house, built under an earlier project, houses the new equipment.

Among those taking part in the inspection were Dr. LeRoy J. Koehler, college president; Summer Bessler and Harold Wiggins, college employees, and representatives of the contractors, H. L. Cleveland Co., Inc., East Stroudsburg, and E. Keller Co., Williamsport.

County Set To Repair Bridges

MONROE County commissioners yesterday spoke to Morris Smickley, supervisor in Hamilton Township, regarding the condition of Reasor's Bridge.

The commissioners went to inspect the bridge in the afternoon and decided that they will advertise for bids for repair work required on the bridge.

They also inspected another county bridge in Kresgeville and will advertise for bids on repairs to that bridge.

In other business the commissioners granted county aid to several persons who requested it and met requirements.

Barrett Supervisors Card Budget Adoption Meeting

CANADENSIS — Barrett Township supervisors last night scheduled a special meeting for Thursday, April 18, at 8 p.m. in the Barrett Elementary Center, at which a budget for 1963 will be adopted.

The budget is open for inspection at the home of L. M. Caruthers, township secretary.

The supervisors reported on grade percentages on hills in the township, as surveyed by Edward C. Hess, Monroe County engineer, for comparison purposes to the ordinance recently adopted which sets a maximum grade of 14 per cent.

The steepest existing grade is Oak Ridge Rd., which has grades of 20.8 per cent and 17.4 per cent at various locations. Others are Canadensis Hill, 11 per cent; Dutch Hill Road, 13 per cent; Price's Drive, 13 per cent; Laurel Pine Road, 11.4 per cent; Rabbit Run Road, 14.28 per cent, and Buck Hill Road, 12.5 per cent.

Twenty-five mile an hour speed zones will be established on Prices Drive, Oak Lane, Laurel Pine Road and Preacher Hill.

Bills for March of $1,077.59 were approved for payment. The fire department reported no property loss during March and Police Chief Harry Campbell reported one burglary with $208 property loss.

The budget is open for inspection at the home of L. M. Caruthers, township secretary.

THERMOSTAT MAY NEED ADJUSTMENT

If you feel that your heating system failed to deliver properly during the cold season, it's a good idea to have your heating contractor check the thermostat while adjusting your heating system.

Modern thermostats are fine, precision instruments, says the Plumbing - Heating-Cooling Information Bureau, and may need adjustment from time to time, as do all fine mechanisms.

DON'T OVERSIZE BOILERS

Research has shown that a boiler larger than necessary does not provide either better hydronic heating or more economical operation, says the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau.

Installation Guides published by the Institute of Boiler and Radiator Manufacturers enable the plumbing and heating contractor to match the boiler capacity exactly to the heat loss of the house, thus providing maximum economy and comfort.

The House Of The Week

Bi-Level Home Goes High Hat

By JULES LOH

THE BI-LEVEL home, increasing in popularity across the country because of the enormous amount of usable space it offers, has undergone a fascinating and valuable refinement.

In today's House of the Week, design J-68 in the series, a glamorous 22-foot living room with a 13-foot ceiling shares the split-entry level of the foyer and opens onto a covered rear porch.

Besides adding an extra dramatic quality to the formal area, the unusual treatment by architect Rudolph A. Matern also eliminates the two most serious drawbacks of bi-level design:

1. It provides room for a partial cellar (the same size as the living room and foyer) which solves the all-important storage problem of a customarily basementless house.

2. It does away with the closet-like mid-level area at the entry of most houses of this type in which the foyer has no relationship to the living area.

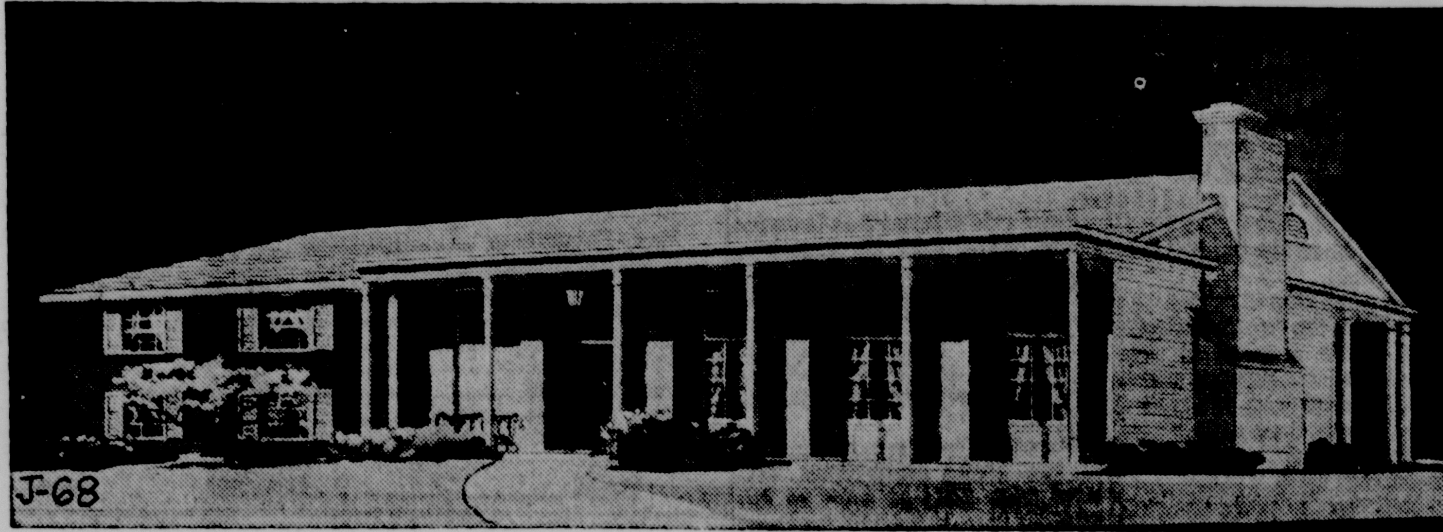

Though there are four distinct levels, the house still conforms to the basic cost-reducing plan of bi-level architecture.

That is, its lower level—containing, in this case, a double garage, recreation room and cocktail lounge, full bath and fourth bedroom or study—is raised out of the ground enough to provide as much light and ventilation as above-ground living.

The house basically is a three-bedroom model containing 1,586 square feet on the upper levels and 575 square feet of bonus living space on the lower levels, not counting the garage.

Its overall dimensions are 62 feet, seven inches wide and 29 feet deep.

The exterior has a distinct colonial flavor with a columned, flat-roofed portico, one and one-half story-high shuttered windows, horizontal siding and white brick. Architect Matern will send a 35-mm. slide of the original full color drawing of GRAND STYLE: This bi-level home has a distinct colonial facade and an equally interesting floor plan. It contains three bedrooms, four if needed, and three full baths. Living room is on the same level as the split entry, and has a 13-foot ceiling.

the house free to anyone who asks. His address is on the J-68 study plan.

Additional Details
Adding to the grand design of the cathedral-type living room is the balcony separating it from the dining room and the huge fireplace visible from both rooms. The covered rear porch extends the function of the already spacious living room and also provides a nice upper-level informal area for relaxing or dining.

The dining room balcony is only one of three in the house. The breakfast area adjoining the kitchen also is enhanced by a balcony staircase, and so is the foyer.

Including the breakfast nook and the neat laundry corner, the kitchen is 18-feet wide and has an extremely efficient work area.

The rear stair has a mid-level landing opening to the backyard, then continues down to the lower level informal areas and the garage. The stair leading to the basement is the massive 27 feet eight inch by 13 feet eight inch recreation room.

Because of its privacy, the bedroom on the lower level would make an excellent in-law apartment, or for the same reason a fine library, den or music room.

Upstairs three nice-sized bedrooms are arranged in a noiseless zone made even more soundproof by the arrangement of closets in each room. Closet space is abundant throughout the house, even in the garage.

The master bedroom has its own private bath with a stall shower. The main bath has two lavatories and a spacious vanity, and there is an oversized linen closet right outside the door.

In addition to the covered rear porch and whatever terraces or patios are built in the backyard, don't overlook the luxurious covered front portico as a fair weather relaxing area.

J-68 STATISTICS

A bi-level house of 1,586 square feet basic area with upper and lower intermediate levels. Living space of lower levels, not counting garage, is 575 square feet. Contains three (or four) bedrooms and three full baths. Overall dimensions are 62 feet, seven inches wide by 29 feet deep.

FLOOR PLANS: Basically a bi-level design, this house has four separate levels. It contains 1,586 square feet on the upper levels and 575 square feet of bonus living space on the lower levels, not counting the garage.

Outsmart Teen-Ager With Twin Lavatories

TEEN-AGE is a time for self discovery. And your teen-ager may spend a lot of time discovering himself in the bathroom mirror above the lavatory.

Any father in a hurry to shave can tell you that prying teens away from the lavatory is like trying to put shaving cream back in the tube.

But the problem can be solved. Outflank your teen-ager, says the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau. Install twin lavatories.

Consider twin lavatories in your home or when remodeling your present one. A second lavatory is a smart decorative touch and will help pull the teen plug out of the bathroom.

When the piping is installed for one lavatory, adding a second lavatory is a simple economical matter. So you can have double convenience at little added cost.

No other bathroom fixture offers such a variety of designs and styles as does the lavatory. Lavatories are available in a wide range of colors to match or accent your bathroom decorating scheme. Twin lavatories can be placed side by side, at an angle to each other or back to back. You have a choice of conventional models with ledge and shelf areas for cosmetics and shaving accessories, and attractive basins that are recessed in stylish counter tops.

Both types are available in oval, rectangular and off-center designs to suit your taste and the styling of your bathroom.

To assure proper, economical installation of lavatories, consult an experienced plumbing contractor. His knowledge of fixture sizes, shapes, costs and methods of installation, whether in a new home or in remodeling, will be valuable to you.

cause. Professional workmen place a high value on pliers. They know that, properly used, pliers are extremely durable. The good mechanic not only has more than one pair of pliers ready for instant use; he has the right kind. Having the right kind is important, because each type is manufactured with specific uses in mind. The intended uses often are ignored by many persons. When they go out to buy pliers, they purchase whatever kind happens to strike their fancy. They may select the cheapest pair, or the most expensive, or the shiniest or the prettiest, if pliers can be called pretty. Seldom is the choice made on the basis of the demands of the jobs for which they will be used.

The home handyman can not be expected to keep a large selection of pliers on hand. Yet if he does very much repair work, he would be foolish not to have at least two or three pairs. He will get maximum benefit from whatever he has by buying the right kind in the first place.

Just what is the right kind? That depends on the type of work the handyman does most. For a variety of holding or gripping project, the slip joint pliers are best. For handling flat objects, the duck bill type is necessary. Since there are more than 100 different kinds of pliers, it would be impractical to list them all. But what we are trying to do is impress upon you the necessity of being a little selective in the purchase of pliers.

ASK ABOUT SIPHON JET

If you're bothered by a noisy, stained or otherwise undesirable water closet in your home, ask your plumbing contractor about the siphon jet.

The siphon jet water closet, says the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau, is the most efficient and quiet model of water closet. It is easy to clean, comes in a variety of styles and colors.

SHOWER MIXING VALVE

You can avoid trial-and-error discomfort in the shower by having your plumbing contractor install a single-handle mixing valve.

The Meaning of The RESURRECTION

Resurrection And Man's Experience

EDITOR'S NOTE — Christian theologians always have given a good deal of attention to Jesus' death and resurrection. The views of three theologians of today, all of whom give an existentialist interpretation, are set forth by the Rev. Dr. Thomas S. Kepler in this fourth of five articles on the Easter story. The articles are excerpts from his book, "The Meaning and Mystery of the Resurrection" published by Association Press and copyrighted by the National Board of YMCAs.

By DR. THOMAS S. KEPLER

AMONG contemporary theologians who offer vital suggestions to modern man as he contemplates the mystery of Jesus' resurrection, three scholars are especially stimulating: Rudolf Otto, Rudolf Bultmann and Paul Tillich.

One of the classics in religious thought is "Das Heilige," in which Rudolf Otto discriminates between objects in religion which can be thought conceptually (and termed rational) and those which can be merely felt but not rationalized (termed the irrational or numinous).

Otto views the resurrection of Jesus as a numinous event, which man cannot rationalize, but feels, "recognizing that the experiences concerned with the Resurrection were mystical experiences and their source 'the Spirit.'"

The resurrection thus belongs not to empirical sense-knowledge, but to faith-knowledge which does not rely on data from the senses. "To speak of 'resurrection' is to utter a mystery, and mystery is a subject of faith, not science."

Holy Legends

The "empty tomb" narratives are holy legends, according to Otto, which later develop around the mystical experiences of Christ "in which the supernatural relation of the eternal to the temporal is mirrored in the medium of contemporary thought. They have enduring value to us from the incomparable beauty and power with which they symbolize the essence of the 'mystery.'"

"The cosmology of the New Testament is essentially mythical in character," writes Rudolf Bultmann, and it is the purpose of the modern biblical interpreter to "demythologize" these myths for modern man's understanding of the great Christian truths.

Myth is involved in the dualism of Satan and his demons vying with God and his angels, to be resolved by a cosmic catastrophe of judgment to end the conflict. Into which the "saving event" of Jesus comes with his pre-existence, death, resurrection and expected return, with the Church as the setting for the "saving event."

Two Aspects

The death of Christ, Bultmann continues to assert, is thus both a sacrifice and a cosmic event, in which Christ is both Messiah and the Second Adam. The cross, viewed mythologically, portrays the pre-existent sinless Son of God whose blood atones us, as he frees us from death in his taking sin and death upon himself.

The existential and cosmic value of the cross lies in our taking Christ's cross as our own, the meaning of which through faith is present for believers in the sacrifice.

Local Demos To Hold 1st Fete-Dance

OTIS MORSE, Democratic State Chairman, will be the principal speaker at the first annual dinner-dance of the Democratic Club of the Stroudsburgs at the Penn-Stroud on April 27.

Plans for the dinner-dance were formulated at a recent meeting of the club at the home of Celeste Rossi.

The dinner-dance is in honor of president James Monroe's birthday, the man for whom Monroe County is named.

David Baldwin, executive assistant to the state treasurer, will also be a speaker.

Frank G. Butler urged at the meeting that all the Democratic Clubs in Monroe County work to make the dinner-dance a success.

Mrs. Barbara Nabors, president of the Democratic Woman's Club of Monroe County and John Pentz, president of the Young Democratic Club of Monroe County attended the meeting.

All Democrats are welcome to the event.

Housing Ordinance Seen Not Cure-All

(Editor's Note: This is the fifth of six articles.)

THE HOUSING ordinance recently adopted by East Stroudsburg Borough Council was written by the committee on hygiene of housing of the American Public Health Assn., Inc. It is not, nor is it intended to be, an immediate cure-all for all housing problems.

In the introduction to the ordinance, the committee writes: "Housing conditions vary tremendously in different geographical regions within the United States, in different communities and in different sections within the same community."

"The current median status of existing housing in any single community has been influenced by many factors, including the community's age, the average economic status of its citizens, the general level of its peoples' social consciousness, the nature of its past and present health and building laws and the extent to which those laws have been enforced."

"The attainment of an optimal level of housing hygiene might prove to be a relatively simple task which could be completely accomplished within a year or two in a young and prosperous city."

"The achievement of the same goal in a comparatively old city whose inhabitants' average per capita income is low will usually prove to be a difficult and time-consuming undertaking."

What does the ordinance propose to do? Simply set minimum standards for dwelling facilities, maintenance and occupancy to safeguard the health and safety of the occupants and the general public.

It establishes minimum standards for basic equipment and facilities and light, ventilation and heating. It defines safe and sanitary maintenance and lists minimum space, use and location requirements.

Responsibilities

It describes the responsibilities of owners and occupants, has a section devoted to rooming houses, lists condemnation procedures and provides penalties for violations of the ordinance.

It also suggests adoption of rules and regulations outside the framework of the ordinance which cover plumbing and plumbing fixtures, rubbish and garbage storage and disposal, gas facilities, electric wiring and facilities, heating and heating facilities, lighting, exclusion of insects and rodents, foundation, floor, walls, ceilings and roof, windows, exterior doors and basement hatchways, stairways and porches, water closet compartment and bathroom floors and general sanitation.

Where the other four codes in the package adopted by the East Stroudsburg council cover buildings of all types, this ordinance is concerned only with where the people live.

The electrical code, plumbing code, building code and fire prevention code, while also applying to homes, apply to all structures in the community.

Qualitative Difference

Tillich sees the cross and the resurrection as "both reality and symbol," in which something is really occurring in both events, though "there is a qualitative difference": the stories of the cross are undoubtedly factual about an event observed in history, while a mystery enshrouds the resurrection event experienced by but a few.

While the event on the cross took place as a fact in space and time, it became a symbol and part of the myth about the death of one who conquered the powers of the old era, when Jesus became the Christ.

Also, the resurrection was a symbol which became a fact, when the disciples believed that Jesus' awful death was that of the Christ. In their certainty of Jesus' resurrection, the disciples gave birth to the Church, "and since the Christ is not the Christ without the Church, he has become the Christ."

While Otto, Bultmann and Tillich represent individualistic views regarding the interpretation and meaning of Jesus' resurrection, they all belong to what is called the "existentialist" approach. Jesus' death and resurrection are validated because they speak to man's experience, and they lie beyond rational explanation.

Stroudsburg Man Receives Patent For Lighter Casing

JAMES Donald Smith, of Stroudsburg has received U. S. patent number 3,081,611 for an improved lighter casing.

The patent has been assigned to the Ronson Corporation.

His invention is for an extruded aluminum casing for butane lighters sufficiently strong to withstand the internal pressures of the compressed gas.

The invention allows a reduction in weight of about one third. The surface may also be finished as was impossible with die castings made in the past.

In the improved casing, provision is made for a windshield of a U shape. Such a lighter comprises a casing which serves as the main support for the working parts of the device and also acts as a confining wall for the fuel of the lighter. The parts include a sparking wheel, flint tube, the necessary valves, a closure cap and a depressible fingerpiece.

Swings Upward

When the fingerpiece is depressed by the user of the lighter, the closure cap swings upward to its open position and turns the sparking wheel so that sparks are projected into the path of the gas.

CAS To Hear Talk On Welfare Aims

WHAT changes in Public Welfare responsibilities are in store in Pennsylvania? This question will be discussed at the annual meeting of the Children's Aid Society of Monroe County on Tuesday, April 16 at 12:15 at the Penn-Stroud Hotel.

Dr. C. Wilson Anderson, Commissioner of the Office for Children and Youth, Pennsylvania Department of Public Welfare, will discuss the effect the recent proposals by the State and Local Welfare Commission for reorganization would have on the Child Welfare program throughout the state.

Representatives of other agencies dealing with children have been invited to attend the luncheon meeting. Dr. Anderson will speak immediately following the luncheon and before the annual business meeting.

He is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania School of Social Work receiving his Doctor of Social Work in 1953. In 1957, he received his LL.B. from William Mitchell College of Law, Minnesota.

Dr. Anderson is a member of the National Assn. of Social Workers, the Minnesota Bar, and the American Bar Assn. He has had a wide range of experience in both public and private welfare agencies and institutions.

Reservations for the luncheon may be made to the Children's Aid Society office through Friday, April 12.

Woodland Burned In Lehman Twp.

VOLUNTEER firemen from Bushkill and Marshall's Creek fought a blaze which burned 300 to 300 acres of woodland north of Camp Hugh Beaver in Lehman Township, Pike County late Tuesday and early yesterday.

The blaze, southwest of Talmont, was fed by high winds. It burned toward the Easton YMCA camp, but firemen kept it from reaching either the resort or camp.

Ralph Heilig, assistant Pocono District forester, said the fire, apparently the work of arsonists, was started at 7 p.m. Wednesday. Heavy snow flurries late in the night gave firemen some help, but the fire was not brought under control until 4 a.m. yesterday.

Heilig said two other fires during the last week also were believed arson.

Pvt. Strouse In Germany

TERRIFIC! The lively "Guys & Dolls" SENSATIONAL!

Just Between Us —

—By Bobby Westbrook

All of a sudden I was homesick for Cullen Yates. Those of you who remember when he guided our infant steps in matters of fine art at our club meetings and when one of his paintings over a fireplace immediately marked a home as one dedicated to gracious living would understand why if you visit the exhibit of paintings by Edward Redfield now being held in the East Room at Buck Hill Inn.

Yates and Redfield were of the same generation and often exhibited together. Their paintings carry much of the same excitement: when impressionism was new and daring the generation of Matisse and Toulouse-Lautrec. I was fascinated to learn that Redfield, who was born in 1869, is still alive.

Very much alive, according to Dr. Herbert Lorenz and Mari- anne G. Packer, who as president and immediate past president of the Buck Hill Art Assn., were my distinguished guides. As a matter of fact, Redfield had been up since 4 a.m. the day they went down to select the paintings for the show—baking bread, if you please. He lives alone in his home near New Hope and manages very well, with some of his children nearby.

Anyway I came back to a high-piled desk and the stories of Easter egg hunts refreshed by a different experience and stimulated as always by talking to people who are enthusiastic about things, whether it's art, or horse shows or egg hunts—for which one enthusiastic sponsor reminded me to remind mothers to have the children wear rubbers and warm clothes.

I needed to be warmed by all the enthusiasm I could gather from other people since in common with most of America I woke depressed and somehow desolate over the loss of the Thresher and her crew. More than 129 people will probably die on the highways on their way home for the Easter holidays, but death under a mile of ocean keeps prodding the imagination, and your thoughts keep returning to it as the tongue to an aching tooth.

Anyway, it is a tragedy over which many a prayer will brood on this Good Friday.

Donna Bartleson Wins Honors In Art Contest

Newfoundland — Donna Bartleson, a senior at Southern Wayne Joint School, was awarded third place in an art talent contest sponsored by the General Federation of Women's Clubs at the Hotel Sterling, Wilkes-Barre.

Donna, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Bartleson, of Angels, represented the Greene-Dreher Women's Club in the contest, which was entered by representatives of the clubs of the Northeast District.

There were ten entries in the contest in the art division. Donna's oil painting, "The Deep Swimming Hole" showed the favorite haunt of youthful swimmers in the days before the 1955 flood destroyed the swimming spot in the West Branch of the Wallenpaupack Creek in the heart of Newfoundland.

Donna is an active student at SWJS, where she is president of the student council, of which she has been a member two years; a member of the Tri-Hi-Y for four years and its treasurer last year; a member of the junior play cast; attended Keystone Girls State as a representative of the American Legion Post; was class secretary for two years and its president last year; a member of the Library Club for three years and its treasurer this year; art and photography editor of the Press Club.

She was a member of the band for four years and is the vice president this year; for four years was a member of the chorus and its accompanist for three years and chorus one; a cheerleader for three years, jaycee captain last year and secretary this year.

Donna has been accepted at Lackawanna Junior College, Scranton, where she will take a one-year stenographic and secretarial course.

Golden Wedding Today For Herds, Former Residents

Mr. and Mrs. Richard E. Herd, of Bath, are celebrating their golden wedding anniversary today.

Last night they were the guests of honor at a family dinner at the Moorestown Hotel, Moorestown.

The couple were married on Saturday, April 12, 1913, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Jones, (former assemblyman), R. D. L. Bath, by Rev. Washington Sands Fox, pastor of the Chapman Quarries Methodist Church. Mrs. Herd is the former Margaret Helena Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis and Margaret Jones. They have three sons and four grandchildren.

Mr. Herd has been retired for the last thirteen years. He formerly was employed by the Prudential Insurance Company at the Stroudsburg office and was a member of their twenty year club. While in Monroe County they resided at 215 Anolomink Street, East Stroudsburg.

Guests at the dinner this evening will include Mr. and Mrs. Ralph E. Herd and children, Ann and Richard, of Bangor; Mr. and Mrs. Lewis R. Herd and children, Alan and Thomas, of Bethlehem, and Mr. and Mrs. Donald G. Herd, of Bangor.

Success On Own Level, Key To Special Education, Curriculum Study Learns

Parents saw for themselves the education offered to the handicapped at the meeting of the Curriculum Study Committee of Stroud Union High School as classroom observation of the training program illustrated the points brought out by the teachers.

In Stroud Union there are special classes for the handicapped on the primary, intermediate and senior levels, with a special county service for the more seriously mentally retarded and a workshop specializing in vocational training, they were told.

Mrs. Lucy Warner, instructor in the primary department, told the group "The purpose of the primary special class program is to make the child feel success in the schoolroom organization and to present a readiness program which will enable the child to accomplish the education of the retardate without frustration."

Children in the special classes are from six to 10 years old, physically, but below 6 in mental age. Many have more than one problem, including emotional problems. Most have started in regular grades and have already met defeat in more than one area, she explained.

They have been defeated because they were not promoted, or were rejected socially, and feel their lack of success. With fewer possibilities of expression than normal children, they need to be encouraged to release emotional tensions through creative activities.

Art work of all types provides an opportunity for his expression, she said, pointing out that in this area he can feel success. "Success breeds more success," she sponsored the annual Easter egg hunt on the church lawn.

All children of the neighborhood are invited to the hunt which will start at 10:30 a.m.

80-Year-Span For Guests At Promised Land

Promised Land — Special guests of the Promised Land Ladies Community Club during the first of two April meetings spanned nearly 80 age-years, with three-month-old Vicki Conger, of Promised Land, and 81-year-old Mrs. Tillie Hauser, of Bethlehem, sharing the spotlight.

A bake sale was planned during the meeting at Promised Land Inn at which June Conger and Dorothy Evans were hostesses. The sale will be held all day on April 26 at the Acme Store in Hawley, and proceeds will further community service projects of the club.

There was a brief discussion of the Mother's Day Smorgasbord. It was announced that Mrs. Jennie Wilson is a patient at Moses Taylor Hospital.

Hostesses for the April 15 meeting will be Florence Arnold and Althea Frano.

Present were Aileen Weiland, Helen Bastian, Althea Frano, Florence Arnold, Rachel Kistler, Evelyn Siegfried, Edna Branch, Dorothy Evans, Marie Glassner, Grace Wolff, Charlotte Rose, Mary Hanczak, Helen Johnson, June Conger, Edith Price and Gertrude Steltz. Mrs. Branch presided.

Portland Garden Club Hears Rev. Naugle

Portland — The Portland Garden Club, meeting this week at the Lutheran Church, Stone Church, had as their guests Mrs. Edgar Van Way, immediate past president of the Monroe County Garden Club, and Mrs. A. Starr Phelps, also of the Monroe County Garden Club, horticulture chairman of district 2.

The program featured Rev. Charles V. Naugle of McCungie in a program on "This is Your Life in Flowers," in which he mingled fantasy and botanical lore in a story involving Miss Rhoda Dendron and Phil O. Dendron in all phases of their life, using the language of flowers.

It was the annual meeting of the club when Mrs. Harry Michaels was elected president; Mrs. Philip Strunk, vice president; Mrs. Harry Bellis, secretary; and Mrs. Lela Williams, treasurer.

Mrs. John Early, Mrs. Walter Ettinger and Mrs. Ralph Casner were hostesses for the Spring tea.

The club had made favors for the guests at the Barto Nursing Home, Portland.

Miss Margaret Treible Is Bride Of Gary Dotter

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Treible, of 316 Braeside Ave., East Stroudsburg, announce the marriage of their daughter, Margaret, to Gary Dotter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Dotter, of Snyder'sville.

They were married on March 2 at 2 p. m. in the East Stroudsburg Methodist Church. Rev. Harold C. Eaton performed the double ring ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a red wool suit with a black fur collar. Her white flowered hat had a small veil. Her corsage was of white orchids.

Mrs. Patricia Altomese, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Ernest Altomese, Jr., was best man.

The ceremony was witnessed by the immediate families of the young couple and was followed by a private banquet for the wedding party at Varkony's in Saylorsburg.

Those present at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Treible, Sr., Ernest Treible, Jr., William and Terry Treible, the bride's family, and her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence M. Transue.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Dotter, parents of the bridegroom; Mrs. Gower and Mrs. Nellie Johns, grandmothers of the bridegroom. After a honeymoon in New York, the newlyweds are living in their new mobile home in East Stroudsburg.

Mrs. Dotter is employed by Citizens Gas Co. as cashier.

Mr. Dotter is employed at Becker's Diner in Snyder'sville, and is also associated with his father in the soft drink distributing business.

Anniversary Of Lodge Spans Years, Globe

The 53rd anniversary of Rachel Brodhead Rebekah Lodge was distinguished by the fact that they have one charter member, Mrs. Ida Keller, and two members, Miss Grace Dreher and Mrs. Ethel Kintner, who have been active for more than 50 years.

The celebration began with a catered baked ham dinner served in the dining hall of Fort Penn Lodge in Stroudsburg. Norma Dutler, Noble Grand, presided at the business meeting which included election of Assembly officers.

Mrs. Grace Hatchman, program chairman, introduced a friend, Mrs. William Weidman of Delaware, N. H., who gave an illustrated lecture of her trip around the world on a Danish freighter.

She told of her observations of the political situation in Cuba as well as their visit to China and the port of Hong Kong.

The anniversary committee was headed by Dorothy Heller, chairman, assisted by Jane Gavin, Freda Possinger, Lorraine Miller, Edith Parcell and Edith Treible.

THE WYCKOFF SHOPPER

This is Good Friday, a day reminding all Christians that there is much more to Easter than the prospects of wearing a new hat at Sunday service. It is a day when one should reflect upon sacrifice, for the sacrifice, made this day so many years ago has remained, and will remain, the ultimate that can be made. We sometimes forget this staggering fact, being almost universally prone to finding less joy and elation in matters of faith than we find in the finery and gifts that come our way.

Of course, the preoccupation with material things is not wholly bad. If man were a soul-less creature, he would care nothing about beauty or refinements... but he isn't. His eternal soul is the gift of God, and because of it, the wonders of life, the miracles of accomplishment, the niceties of living are important. Viewed in this light, one is aware that the new hat is not just balm for the ego of its wearer, but a carefully selected, highly prized tribute to the importance of a joyous Christian occasion. Heaven would perhaps not desire it to be otherwise.

Here at Wyckoff's the gay trappings of Easter are everywhere. Enter our Tea Room door and right before you, in the Notions department, are all kinds of sturdy, substantial, handsome baskets, some filled with colored grass and tiny plush Easter animals. A few steps along one finds the Gift department, overflowing with excellent ideas for remembering one's hostess, or some special relative or friend, at Easter or on some other choice occasion. If I could afford to do so, I'd go happily mad selecting from the newly arrived bookends for all of my book-loving friends. For instance, there are black metal (also brass) hens that would be quite at home, holding up a row of cookbooks in a provincial kitchen; there are bronze "books" that would be just the thing for this year's graduate heading toward college, or for any other scholar of one's acquaintance; and I know an old car enthusiast who would enjoy owning those bookends featuring an automobile of ancient vintage in their design.

In our Candy department, the symbols of Easter are everywhere: in bunnies, two or more feet high... in eggs, both filled and hollow... in jelly beans of every possible hue... in miniature foil-wrapped eggs from Switzerland, Italy, or Holland... in boxes of candy tied with ribbons and decked with bows... and in metal bunnies and eggs that play "Here Comes Peter Cottontail" when one turns a tiny crank. Harvey Hay and I each selected one on a morning not long ago, and serenaded the girls in our Cosmetic department, much to the consternation of customers breezing through our front door.

Easter is everywhere at Wyckoff's. One sees it in the panoramic Easter eggs of styrofoam on Bea Gorgy's counter... in the plush ducks and bunnies of our Toy store... in the artificial tulips and hyacinths that look so very real. One smells it in the sweet, wonderful, mysterious fragrances wafted from our perfume display... or thrills to it in the flowered hats abloom in our Millinery departments.

But today is Good Friday, and we will close shop from twelve to three so that all who wish may attend service, and be reminded that, while the real spirit of Easter may be worn as a shield and brandished as a sword; while it glorifies and strengthens, it can never be purchased. It was a gift. A gift of supreme sacrifice made on this day a long, long time ago.

Let's talk Fashion
There's nothing like a dash of white to add distinction to the Spring scene—the high white clouds against a blue sky, the first white gloves on the littlest Easter parader, the Easter lilies on the altar.
And there's nothing like white to add dash to the Spring wardrobe and we've got it from the mere flash of white in gloves, handbags, or jewelry to the all-over look of white coats and suits that span the seasons and the occasions so triumphantly.
White coats in feather-weight wools, in ribbed cottons that look like corduroy; white suits in double knits or in a cotton, dacron and silk that looks like raw silk, or in cotton tweeds; white dresses in shifts or two-piece effects or gently fitted; white skirts, and, of course, those fine white blouses that make your Spring suit.
There's no need to remind you what white will do for those tans-to-come. In fact the only place we don't advise white right now is on the ground in the form of snow.

Traffic On Water Gap Toll Bridge Increases In Month

THE Delaware River Joint Toll Bridge Commission has released figures on local bridges for March of this year.

Area toll bridges are the Portland-Columbia Toll Bridge, the Delaware Water Gap Toll Bridge, and the Milford-Montague Toll Bridge. State owned free bridges in this area are the Belvidere-Riverton and the Portland-Columbia pedestrian.

Traffic on the Delaware Water Gap Toll Bridge during the month of March showed an increase of 7.40 per cent while revenue decreased 11.16 per cent, as compared to the month of March (1962).

149,847 vehicles used the toll bridge during the month to provide a daily average of 4834 passages. Income for the month totaled $55,612.45 providing a daily average of $1,793.95.

135,526 vehicles which yielded $62,600.45 used the toll bridge in the month of March (1962). Traffic is up 6.20 per cent for the three months of 1963, and revenue is down 10.43 per cent. 387,054 vehicles yielding $152,766.07 have used the toll bridge during the three months of 1963, and such figures provide an average daily use of 4301 vehicles and $1,697.40 revenue per day.

Williams was released after paying a fine of $10 and $9 costs on each charge.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Friday, April 12, 1963
An auspicious outlook for those who are keen of eye and willing of hand, for good efforts ably channelled. If involved in a delicate situation with no end in sight, re-evaluate, calm a disinterested party to aid in the solution. You may have a disagreeable disposition to deal with, or unexpected hazards. But your bright spirit and knowledgeability will turn things to advantage, if you remain up to standard.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Work at work time, and stop to contemplate when that benefit is due. Do not switch your schedule around to its detriment. But gradually give more power and concern to prime endeavors.

June 22 to July 21 (Cancer) — Surge forward confidently but not with abruptness. Stop and reassess with tact. Presume and assume only after careful, thorough study of the subject.

July 22 to August 21 (Leo) — Some persons may be furtive and sly now, but Leo is usually high above these, so be careful not to fall into a trap. Some dandy advantages.

August 22 to September 21 (Virgo) — In "padding" which are "musts" first, then you will have time for the "desirables." Just so you do not get carried before the horse and become witlessly involved.

September 22 to October 21 (Libra) — Shun break-neck speed, but neither delay nor tardiness. In both extremes, and others MUST be curbed. Group interests, partnerships flourish.

October 22 to November 21 (Scorpio) — Put past doubts, disappointments behind you; they only put limits on future success. Stress your versatility; you could add the twist now that boosts projects to success. Plan well.

November 22 to December 21 (Sagittarius) — This may not be a "prime" type day, but it offers a lot of gains and excitement, start with the will to make it better than the others this week, and you will be happy.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn) — Analysis, conjectures, decisions, must be given a second look-see studied further to prevent errors. Be alert.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — It is not easy to heed all suggestions and directives, but with all your strength and faith, back those you know to be authoritative and timely. There is more to this day than may be apparent at first.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — A good spot for your intuitive senses, your ingenuity, actions and inventiveness. See to it that you use them for sound purposes.

March 21 to April 19 (Aries) — You have begun a project with great enthusiasm, yet do not feel much like finishing it. You lose interest, not so much through fickleness but because you give it tremendous drive in the beginning and exhaust yourself early. Teach yourself to complete what you start. You are quick-seeing, equally quick to act. You take a liking to people and places. FAST must slow down both to protect health and give others a chance to meet the real, intelligent you. Aries introduces a lot of P.F. speakers, statesmen, military geniuses, creators in the fashion field. Voice and emotional control will complement your driving power. You are a natural-born winner. Birthdate: Henry Clay, early American statesman.

PV Board Approves Calendar

THE Pleasant Valley Joint School Committee last night approved a calendar for 1963-64, which will have 180 student-days and 184 teacher-days.

Three people on the committee voted no on the calendar, eight voted for it. The three opposed giving the first day of deer season as a holiday. They are Robert Anderson, Joseph Decker and Mrs. Sadie Smith.

After a lengthy discussion, the committee approved the starting of adult homemaking classes. The classes are tentatively scheduled to begin in September, and will be given at night once a week for eight weeks.

The committee approved a motion to advertise for bids for general supplies.

The resignation of Miss Jacqueline Fenner, music teacher, was accepted. The board named no one to fill her vacancy.

In other action, the committee granted working papers to two boys, who, along with their parents, made the request.

Adenauer Moves Closer To Goal

BONN, Germany (AP) — Chancellor Konrad Adenauer is moving nearer to realization of a cherished goal—ratification of his treaty of friendship with France.

The Bonn government announced yesterday the 87-year-old chancellor reached agreement with leaders of both coalition parties to get quick approval of the pact.

Powell Slams Two

Orioles Bomb Yankees, 4-1

NEW YORK (AP) — John (Boog) Powell smashed two home runs and Milt Pappas pitched a five-hitter as Baltimore's undefeated Orioles ruined the New York Yankees home opener before 29,772 chilled fans Thursday with a 4-1 triumph for their third straight victory.

Powell drove in three runs with his homers, Nos. 2 and 3 of the young season. The first, with a runner on base in the fifth inning broke a 1-1 tie and hung the defeat on Whitey Ford, veteran southpaw, who bowed out for a pinch hitter on the bottom half of the inning.

Pappas walked five in the crisp 40-degree weather but was helped by three double plays. He struck out four, including pinch hitter

Johnny Blanchard to snuff out a Yankee threat in the fifth when the Yankees had runners on second and third with one out.

FINISHES FIGHT REPORT

SCRANTON, Pa. (AP) — Jim Crowley, chairman of the State Athletic Commission, said Thursday his report on the death of a boxer after a fight last Saturday night would be given to Gov. Scranton early next week.

Crowley said he had completed his investigation of the death of 20-year-old Francesco Velasquez in an amateur bout at Carbondale. The commissioner declined to discuss the report, which he said was being typed now.

"It will be given to the governor early next week, after the Easter holiday," Crowley said.

Gov. Scranton said at his news conference Thursday his present thinking is that action is necessary to prevent fatalities in the ring. He said he would rather not go into details now. The governor said:

"I have asked the commission to meet with me on the whole matter of boxing and that meeting will be held Monday. . . I would also discuss it with other persons."

Velasquez died after a fight with 17-year-old Earl Johnson. The body of the soldier, who was stationed at Tobyhanna Army Depot, was sent to his native Puerto Rico for burial.

Player Takes Greensboro Golf Lead

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Hay fever sufferer Gary Player, making hay in the absence of the other members of golf's "Big Three," shot a 5-under-par 32-34-66 Thursday to lead the first round of the $35,000 Greater Greensboro Open by one shot.

The little South African, who says he's gained five pounds up to 155, used five handkerchiefs and three pills in addition to 66 strokes as his first hay fever attack in seven months plagued him throughout the round.

Hebert, although finishing with a bogey, shot 34-33-67 for second place. Ideal weather produced a bumper crop of sub-par scores and a hole-in-one by Los Angeles Negro professional Pete Brown, who shot 72.

Six men shared third place at 68. Canadian Stan Leonard, a former winner here, shot the par 35-36-71 Sedgfield Country Club course, a 7,000-yarder, in 33-35 for his share of the tie. Sharing the deadlock, each on a pair of 34s, were Jay Hebert; New Zealand southpaw Bob Charles; Doug Sanders, recent winner of the Tokyo Open; veteran Jimmy Clark, back on tour after a layoff, and Tommy Aaron, national amateur runner-up in 1957.

Monroe County Streams Stocked

JAMES HAZEN, Monroe County fish warden, announced last night that more than 45,000 trout have been stocked in the streams of the county.

He added that fishing season opens 5 a. m. Saturday and fishermen are allowed eight fish, six inches or longer, each day of the season.

Hazen reminds all fishermen to wear their fishing license in a place that may be seen by any fish warden making checks.

Y Swim Schedule

THE YMCA swimming pool will be open the following hours during the Easter vacation:

Friday—10:11:30 a. m.; 3:30-5:30 p. m., and 7-9 p. m.
Saturday—2:30-4:30 p. m.
Monday — 10:30-noon; 2:30-4:30 p. m.
Tuesday—10:30-noon; 2:30-4:30 p. m.

An underwater egg hunt will be held Monday from 7:30-9 p. m. in the pool for members between the ages of 6 and 12.

Pennel Vault May Be New World Record

NATCHITOCHES, La. (AP) — Track officials said Thursday John Pennel's vault of 16 feet, 4 inches—an inch above his pending world record of 16-3—will be submitted as the new world standard.

Coach Walter P. Ledet of Northwestern, La., State College, where Pennel competed in a triangular meet Wednesday, said all measurements checked out.

Ledet said he and meet referee Trent Melder measured the bar at 16-4 1/4 with a field tape before and after the 22-year-old North-east, La., State senior vaulted.

Track rules allow only one-quarter inch measurements in the pole vault. The official height was moved back to the four-inch mark.

A surveyor checked the runway to see if it were level with the planting box—the box in which a vaulter thrusts his pole on takeoff.

Edwin Miller, a surveying teacher at Northwestern, certified that the runway was actually an inch below the box. Rules say it must be level or lower than the box.

At Monroe where Northeast is located, Pennel said his record vault "went perfect."

"I had a little trouble when I missed at 16-4 the first time," Pennel said. "I dropped my feet on the way up and kicked the bar. But the second time, everything went perfect."

Pennel had the bar raised two inches but was unable to clear 16-6 in three tries.

Dodgers Bow To Chicago's Ellsworth

CHICAGO (AP)—The Los Angeles Dodgers got only six balls to the outfield as Chicago lefty Dick Ellsworth spun a three-hitter to give the Cubs their season's first victory, 2-0, Thursday.

Ellsworth, 23, bested Johnny Podres in a duel of southpaws for the second shutout of his big league career and an impressive start after a 9-20 record last season.

Besides yielding only three singles, Ellsworth allowed only three other balls to leave the infield, two to center field and one to left for easy outs.

Bucs' Clendenon Showing Power

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Although it's too early in the season to be certain, Pittsburgh baseball fans are beginning to think the Pirates' new first baseman, Donn Clendenon, is a Dick Stuart who can field.

Clendenon, a rangy, 26-year-old former mathematics teacher, has displayed more power in three games this year than the cocky Stuart exhibited in 17 in 1962.

He has clouted two home runs, a triple and a pair of sharp singles in 11 at bats, and even in making outs he's hit some wicked drives.

Good Glove
However, it was primarily Clendenon's defensive finesse and potential .300 plus batting rather than his slugging that caused the Pirates to ship Stuart to the Boston Red Sox last winter. For despite his poor performance last year, Stuart still is regarded as a home run terror. But in fielding, he's baseball's answer to Soupy Sales.

"I'm not really surprised at my power," Clendenon said Thursday. "If you'll check the records you'll see I hit with power in the minors. I usually got 20 home runs, 20 or more doubles and 18 triples. That's what I call power."

"I generally have gotten off to a slower start than this. But in four years in the minor leagues, I opened the season with home runs."

Danny Murtaugh, the cigar-chomping Irishman who manages the Pirates, refused to get excited about Clendenon's power spree. "Clendenon's got good power," Murtaugh said. "But he's predominantly an extra base hitter and not a home run hitter, though he can hit the long ball."

This is Clendenon's first year as a regular in the majors, although the Morehouse College graduate pushed Stuart to the bench in the latter half of the 1962 campaign.

In 80 games last season, 40 as a starter, he hit .302 with seven homers, five triples, eight doubles and 28 runs-batted-in. And he led the club in stolen bases with 16—the first time a Pirate has pilfered that many bases since Pete Castiglione did it in 1951.

Mets Score, Lose

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Milwaukee wonder Warren Spahn mastered New York on six hits and Hank Aaron drove in three runs with a homer and a single Thursday as the Braves lauded their 1963 home campaign with a 6-1 victory over the lowly Mets.

Spahn, who will be 42 on April 23, struck out five and didn't walk a batter as he posted career triumph No. 328 and moved into a tie for eighth place with John Clarkson among baseball's all-time winners.

The Mets, who had been shut out in their first two games with St. Louis, broke into the scoring column as Duke Snider led off the second with his first homer since being acquired from the Los Angeles Dodgers. Snider boosted his lifetime total to 390 homers, but Spahn was in command the rest of the way.

Schell Wins Athletic Scholarship

ALAN Schell, East Stroudsburg High School football player for the past three seasons, has been named recipient of the Skinner Athletic Scholarship at the University of Pennsylvania — the highest athletic scholarship awarded by the university.

The 220-pound, 6-1 senior played tackle under Coach Jack Kist and was a letterman the past two seasons. A leg injury limited his final playing season by six games.

"The boy has a lot of potential," Kist said last night, noting that he is "a willing worker and a hard worker who seemed to enjoy playing the game."

M. S. (Marty) Baldwin, East Stroudsburg businessman who has had head football coach of the University of Pennsylvania, John Steigman, appear at the Eastern Pennsylvania coaches' clinic at East Stroudsburg State College, was among the first to notify him of Schell's football prowess.

Other offers to Schell also came from Penn State and Princeton.

Leppert's 3 HRs Lifts Nats To Win

CHENY allowed only one hit, a single by Eddie Bressoud in the fourth inning, and Don Leppert rapped three consecutive home runs as the Washington Senators whipped Boston 8-0 Thursday night.

Cheney, who struck out 10 men, allowed only two base runners. Bob Tillman drew a leadoff walk in the sixth inning and Bressoud reached first on a hard-hit grounder to deep shortstop which Ed Brinkman was fortunate to get his hands on.

Leppert, who hit only three home runs in each of the last two years as a reserve catcher for the Pirates, blasted his first into the upper deck in the fourth inning off Ike Delock, Boston starter and loser.

Furor Over Strike Zone

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Baseball's new strike zone has created a furor that threatens to spread from one end of the country to a point roughly 12 feet from the same end.

The Sporting News already has covered the controversy from every conceivable angle except to explore the possible adverse affect of the new rule on the nation's balance of payments. But we decided to conduct our own survey, and a mighty good thing we did. It shows that, of every 50 persons questioned, 27 didn't know the difference between the strike zone and the flavor zone, 17 told us only their hairdressers knew, and six said they'd rather not talk about it because they still have relatives in the old country.

Speed Up Game
One of the announced purposes of the enlarged strike zone is to speed up the game. But, before we go into that, perhaps we'd better take a look at the new rule and a few attendant definitions. Quoting from memory:

"The strike zone is that space over home plate which is between the top of the batter's shoulders when he assumes his natural stance and his knees. (See 'Stance')"

1. Play seven-inning games the first month of the season, to give the players time to get in the swim of it. Then cancel the rest of the schedule.

SHARP SHOOTER — George Geiges Jr. of Newfoundland, stands behind many of his trophies won in various pistol meets — latest of which came in the Pennsylvania State Pistol championship at Seven Mountains Pistol Club near State College.

Geiges Tops Field Of 100

Newfoundland Man Wins Pennsy Pistol Contest

NEWFOUNDLAND — George Geiges Jr., Jr., is winner of the Pennsylvania State Pistol Championship over a field of more than 100 competitors in the Master Classification during matches held at Seven Mountains Pistol Club near State College.

The match at Seven Mountains was one of three held simultaneously in different locations in the state, during which time officials were in contact with each other by "ham" radio.

In a contest of equal parts of slow timed and rapid fire with .22 and .38 calibre pistols, Geiges fired a 1600 score out of a possible 1800 aggregate to win the Grand Aggregate. The closest score to the winner's was 1673.

Six Trophies — Geiges, who also took six trophies in the contest, won the Berks County Spring Tournament last year, and the Reading Police Revolver Shoot, winning the whole tournament on both occasions.

He worked his way up from marksman to sharpshooter to expert to master, winning the latter classification in 1952.

He has participated in registered competition for the past four years, although he has always been interested in shooting. He makes all of his own ammunition, doing his own casting and re-loading.

His work as machinist for Weiler Brush Company in Cresco has helped him considerably in learning to do his own gun repair work.

Geiges is also interested in the old muzzle-loaders, and is one of the chairmen of the muzzle-loading rifle contest at the Greene-Dreher-Sterling Community Fair during the Summer.

The state champ now has his sights on winning a place on the five-man pistol team which will represent Pennsylvania at Camp Perry, Ohio, in August, during the National Matches.

Harmon's Ladies Bowl Tonight

HARMON'S Ladies League has three matches scheduled for tonight at Harmon's Recreation starting at 7 p.m.

Ballantine Beer vs. Law son's Automotive on alleys 1 and 2; Lackawanna Hotel vs. Half Moon Tavern on alleys 3 and 4, and Counterman's Drug Store vs. Chessie's Village Barn on alleys 5 and 6.

Commercial 'C' Has 3 Matches

THREE matches are scheduled in the Commercial "C" Bowling League tonight.

Kreamee Ice Cream vs. Regina Hotel on alleys 1 and 2; Trumatic Machine & Tool vs. Lucky Dot on alleys 3 and 4, and Lanterman's Funeral Home vs. Counterman's Drug Store on alleys 5 and 6.

The fight will not be televised and the Garden will be scaled from $10 top down to $2.50 per seat.

Bill Frear Babe Ruth President

BILL Frear, head basketball coach and assistant baseball coach at Pleasant Valley High School, is the new president of the Babe Ruth League of Monroe County.

Other officers elected at the league's reorganization meeting are Wilmont Smith, head baseball coach at Stroud Union High School, commissioner; William Palmer, secretary, and James Cummings, treasurer.

A joint statement issued by the officers declared that "another fine season of baseball for our local youths is anticipated."

The new officers also noted that two of last year's league graduates, Freddy Frantz and Danny Hill, got off to good starts for their respective high school teams of Stroud Union and Emmaus. Hill was a top hurler last season for Stroud Union before moving to Emmaus.

The next meeting of officers, managers and parents will be held April 23 at 8 p.m. in the YMCA. Dates for registration will be among the topics discussed.

Paul Pender To Battle Giardello

BOSTON (AP)—Paul Pender, erstwhile Brookline fireman, recognized in Massachusetts only as the middleweight boxing champion, agreed Thursday to fight Joey Giardello for that small portion of the throne in the Boston Garden, June 7.

Giardello is ranked fifth among the world's middleweights. He has defeated, and has been beaten by Dick Tiger, the Nigerian recognized by the rest of the world as champion.

Joe Fullmer in a title fight with Pender had been given until April 14 by the Massachusetts Boxing Commission to agree to meet a ranked middleweight.

Promoter Sam Silverman arranged a unique pot for this one. Under the agreement Giardello is to receive 60 per cent of the net gate but he must pay Pender $40,000.

Normally, said the promoter, a championship fight calls for the defender to receive 40 per cent of the net and the challenger to receive 20 per cent.

The fight will not be televised and the Garden will be scaled from $10 top down to $2.50 per seat.

EAST STROUDSBURG AREA JOINT SCHOOL AUTHORITY RESOLUTION

WHEREAS, East Stroudsburg Area Joint School Authority ("Authority"), on advice of its financial advisor, study and consideration of interest rates, and the money market, has determined that certain substantial monies can be obtained by a refinancing program and the issuance of refunding school revenue bonds at present interest rate, to refund and redeem existing issued and outstanding school revenue bonds of the Authority dated as of December 1, 1958—Series of 1958, in the initial principal amount of $3,300,000 secured by Trust Indenture dated as of December 1, 1958 between the Authority and Miners National Bank of Wilkes-Barre, as Trustee, and Authority has determined to proceed with such refunding program and

WHEREAS, Authority deems it to be advisable that, in connection with such refunding the Trustee acting for bondholders under the refunding bond issue should be the same Trustee as under the present Indenture dated as of December 1, 1958; and

WHEREAS, the Authority has determined that it is in the best interests of the Authority and the Authority's counsel, that the Trustee acting for bondholders under the refunding bond issue should be the same Trustee as under the said Trust Indenture of December 1, 1958, and that the said Monroe Security Bank and Trust Company, a Bank and Trust Company, Pennsylvania, now located at Stroudsburg, Monroe County, Pennsylvania, and designated as Trustee for bondholders under said refunding issue.

WHEREAS, the Authority has further informed Miners that the Authority has determined, upon advice from bond counsel and the Authority's counsel, that the Trustee acting for bondholders under the refunding issue should be the same Trustee as under the said Trust Indenture of December 1, 1958, and that the said Monroe Security Bank and Trust Company fulfills the requirements of said Trust Indenture of December 1, 1958, for acting as Successor Trustee thereunder, and has consented to act as such Successor Trustee; and

WHEREAS, the Authority has requested the said Trustee to resign as such Trustee in order to permit the appointment of the said Monroe Security Bank and Trust Company as such Successor Trustee, and to resign as such Trustee for the said purpose;

THESE PRESENTS ALL MEN BY National Bank of Wilkes-Barre, Wilkes-Barre, Pennsylvania, as Trustee, and pursuant to Resolution duly adopted by the said Bank's Board of Directors, do hereby resign as such Trustee under the said Trust Indenture of December 1, 1958, and the said Monroe Security Bank and Trust Company to be appointed Successor Trustee as hereinafter so appointed.

2. Monroe Security Bank and Trust Company, Stroudsburg, Pennsylvania, is hereby appointed as Successor Trustee under the Indenture, and a proper instrument to fully appoint the Successor Trustee to fill the vacancy created is hereby authorized and shall be executed and delivered by the proper officers for and on behalf of the Authority to fully effectuate the appointment; and further, the Authority shall execute and deliver an instrument or instruments, joining therein with the resigning Trustee, if required, which shall effectually and completely transfer to Monroe Security Bank and Trust Company, Stroudsburg, Pennsylvania, Successor Trustee, all of the estate, property, rights, power and trusts of the Trustee ceasing to act; and further, the Secretary is authorized and directed to cause a notice of the appointment of Monroe Security Bank and Trust Company, as Successor Trustee, to be published once a week for at least two consecutive weeks in the Daily Record, a newspaper of general circulation in the Borough of East Stroudsburg, in the County of Monroe, Pennsylvania.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, Miners National Bank of Wilkes-Barre, has caused this resignation to be executed by its Vice President and its corporate seal to be hereunto affixed, attested by its Cashier this 27th day of March, 1963.
